I hope your families had a great break!!

We are welcoming 3 new students to our classroom this week. I know our current students will do a great job showing them the ropes. We will spend these first couple of weeks back relearning all of the classroom rules and routines and making sure everyone transitions back smoothly.

A Note From Our Speech Therapist:

Winter is a great time to work on sequencing activities. While playing outside in the snow, talk about how to build a snowman. Break down the steps and build the snowman together. You can also work on sequencing with indoor activities such as making hot chocolate or putting on winter clothes. Remember to keep your language simple. Use only necessary words to get your point across. Enjoy winter!
